Nervous Rundown

Condition Responds To Owa-Ton-Na

Popular Newell Baseball Player Finds In This Compound a Remedy of Real Merit.

Those suffering from nervous run down condition should find hope in the endorsement which Mr. Everett Ash, Washington street, Newell, W. Va., gives Owa-Ton-Na. He says: "For the past year I have been a nervous wreck. My whole system seemed to be run down, my stomach was in terrible condition, food of any kind distressed me, gas would form so bad at times that I felt miserable. My head ached so bad it felt as though it would split open. Backaches and dizzy spells had me worried lots of times."

"I was so nervous at times that I could hardly talk to anyone. I tried so many medicines that I was completely discouraged. Nothing seemed to do me any good. When I first decided to try Owa-Ton-Na I was almost afraid to take it since so many medicines had made me sick. Owa-Ton-Na is different than anything I have ever taken. Even the first bottle gave me a wonderful relief. My stomach started to function normally, food digested the way it should and my appetite picked up wonderfully."

"My bowels now function normally, my headaches and backaches as well as dizzy spells are a thing of the past. I have new pep and energy. I want to say that Owa-Ton-Na is a remarkable medicine."

EVERETT ASH

I recommend it to anyone who is suffering." Owa-Ton-Na is a non-alcoholic herbal preparation for kidney, liver, stomach and intestinal disorders. Sold in East Liverpool at Carnahan's Drug Stores, 114 East Sixth street, and East End. It is also sold at Carnahan's Newell, W. Va. Store.—Adv.

PLAN DISPLAY IN FORT PITT, PENN HOTELS

Fiftieth Anniversary Exhibit Arrangements Made.

SPACE ALLOTTED

Fifty Manufacturers Will Feature Latest Offerings.

Fiftieth anniversary show of the Associated Glass and Pottery Manufacturers will be held in the Fort Pitt and William Penn hotels, Pittsburgh January 13-25.

More than 50 pottery and glass manufacturers of the United States have arranged for display space. The first pottery show was held in Pittsburgh in 1880, the year after Edison invented the electric lamp. The Monongahela house on the river bank was the exhibit center. The initial show was sponsored by a group of energetic salesmen, and the display was made up of only a few of the leading pottery shapes and designs. About 20 years ago the exhibit was moved to the Fort Pitt hotel.

Membership of The Associated Glass and Pottery Manufacturers, which has sponsored the show since 1923, is limited to manufacturers of pottery and glass ware.

Falling Leaf

One day in autumn, as a sear and yellow leaf was floating by, I looked to see from where it came. And there on branch still waving high.

I saw a twig: it was the same That long had helped to shade the lawn, By bearing there the selfsame leaf That now by nature's course had gone.

The voice of thought came whispering then:

"O leaf, what part in nature's scheme Had ceased and gone forever when you left where once you reigned supreme?"

I listened as the answer thrived. New light upon the leaflet's fall. And from it I a lesson drew. I, too, must heed the Master's call.

No matter if on dizzy heights Our busy lives the scepter sway, Nor if with diamonds' brilliant lights

Our princely forms have been arrayed, Just like the leaf that fell to earth,

Our treasured wealth and all its worth Must at the last their mission fill.

For God's great plan is working still.

I chanced to travel that same road When months and years had passed away:

The old tree that there once had stood, Had long since withered to decay.

Noticed, where the leaf had blown, Into a stately tree had grown.

And cast its shadow as before.

The thought then came: "There is no death,"

Though naught exists with changeless form,

The atom still exists, as when By unseen power it first was born.

Just so the wondering soul of man, Once formed by God's unerring hand,

Will live when ages yet shall pass, In some unknown and distant land.

Bishop Murder Case

Philo Vance Story of Mystery and Crime.

By S. S. VAN DINE

"I'll join your uncle in a very few minutes, Miss Dillard," Markham's tone was paternal and sympathetic. "And please wait with him, for I want to see you, too."

With a murmured acquiescence, the girl disappeared round the head of the stairs.

We moved on to the rear door of the lower hall. Beyond was a narrow passageway terminating in a flight of wooden steps which led to the basement. At the foot of these steps we came into a large, low-ceilinged room with a door giving directly upon the areaway at the west side of the house. This door was slightly ajar, and in the opening stood the man from the Homicide Bureau whom Heath had set to guard the body.

The room had obviously once been a basement storage; but it had been altered and redecorated, and now served as a sort of club-room. The cement floor was covered with fibre rugs, and one entire wall was painted with a panorama of archers throughout the ages. There were a piano and a phonograph in the room; numerous comfortable wicker chairs; a varicolored divan; an enormous wicker centre-table littered with all manner of sports magazines; and a small bookcase filled with works on archery. Several targets rested in one corner, their gold discs and concentric chromatic rings making brilliant splashes of color in the sunlight which flooded in from the two near windows. One wall space near the door was hung with long bows of varying sizes and weights; and near them was a large old-fashioned tool-chest. Above it was suspended a small cupboard, or ascham, strewn with various odds and ends of tackle, such as braces, shooting-gloves, piles, points of aim, and bow strings. A large oak panel between the door and the west window contained a display of one of the most interesting and varied collections of arrows I had ever seen.

This panel attracted Vance particularly, and adjusting his monocle carefully, he strolled over to it.

"Hunting and war arrows," he remarked. "Most interesting! . . . Ah! One of the trophies seems to have disappeared. Taken down with considerable haste, too. The little brass head that held it in place is shockingly bent."

On the floor stood several quivers filled with target arrows. He leaned over and, withdrawing one, extended it to Markham.

"This trail shaft may not look as if it would penetrate the human breast; but target arrows will drive entirely through a deer at eight yards. . . . Why, then, the missing hunting arrow from the panel? An interesting point."

Markham frowned and compressed his lips; and I realized that he had been clinging to the forlorn hope that the tragedy might have been an accident. He tossed the arrow hopelessly on a chair, and walked toward the outer door.

"Let's take a look at the body and the lie of the land," he said gruffly.

As we emerged into the warm spring sunlight a sense of isolation came over me. The narrow paved areaway in which we stood seemed like a canyon between steep stone walls. It was four or five feet below the street level, which was reached by a short flight of steps leading to the gate in the wall. The blank, windowless rear wall of the apartment house opposite extended upwards for 150 feet; and the Dillard house itself, though only four stories high, was the equivalent of six stories gauged by the architectural measurements of today. Though we were standing out of doors in the heart of New York, no one could see us except from the few side windows of the Dillard house and from a single bay window of the house on 76th Street, whose rear yard adjoined that of the Dillard grounds.

This other house, we were soon to learn, was owned by a Mrs. Drukker; and it was destined to play a vital and tragic part in the solution of Robin's murder. Several tall willow trees acted as a mask to his rear windows; and only the bay window at the side of the house had an unobstructed view of that part of the areaway in which we stood.

I noticed that Vance had his eye on this bay window, and as he studied it I saw a flicker of interest cross his face. It was not until much later that afternoon that I was able to guess what had caught and held his attention.

The archery range extended from the wall of the Dillard lot on 75th street all the way to a similar street wall of the Drukker lot on 76th street, where a butt of hay bales had been erected on a shallow bed of sand. The distance between the two walls was 200 feet, which, as I learned later, made possible a sixty-yard range, thus permitting target practice for all the standard archery events, with the one exception of the York Round for men.

The Dillard lot was 135 feet deep, the depth of the Drukker lot therefore being sixty-five feet. A section of the tall iron-work fence that separated the two rear yards had been removed where it had once transversed the space now used for the archery range. At the further end of the range, backing against the western line of the Drukker property, was another tall apartment house occupying the corner of 75th street and Riverside drive. Between these two gigantic buildings ran a narrow alleyway, the range end of which was closed with a high board fence in which had been set a small door with a lock.

The body of Robin lay almost directly outside of the archery-room door. It was on its back, the arms extended, the legs slightly drawn up, the head pointing toward the 76th-street end of the range. Robin had been a man of perhaps thirty-five, of medium height, and with an incipient corpulency. There was a rotund puffiness to his face, which was smooth-shaven except for a narrow blond mustache. He was clothed in a two-piece sport suit of light gray flannel, a pale-blue silk shirt, and tan Oxfords with thick rubber soles. His hat—a peacock-colored felt fedora—was lying near his feet.

Besides the body was a large pool of coagulated blood which had formed in the shape of a huge pointing hand. But the thing which held us all in a spell of fascinated horror was the slender shaft that extended vertically from the left side of the dead man's breast. The arrow protruded perhaps twenty inches, and where it had entered the body there was the large dark stain of the hemorrhage. What made this strange murder seem even more incongruous were the beautifully fletched feathers on the arrow. They had been dyed a bright red; and about the shaftment were two stripes of turquoise blue—giving the arrow a gala appearance. I had a feeling of unreality about the tragedy, as though I were witnessing a scene in a sylvan play for children.

Vance stood looking down at the body with half-closed eyes, his hands in his coat pockets. Despite the apparent indolence of his attitude I could tell that he was keenly alert, and that his mind was busy co-ordinating the factors of the scene before him.

"Dashed queer, that arrow," he commented. "Designed for big game; . . . undoubtedly belongs to that ethnological exhibit we just saw. And a clean hit—directly into the vital spot, between the ribs and without the slightest deflection. Extraordinary! . . . I say, Markham; such marksmanship isn't human. A chance shot might have done it; but the slayer of this Johnny wasn't leaving anything to chance. That powerful hunting arrow, which was obviously wrenched from the panel aside, shows premeditation and design—" Suddenly he bent over the body. "Ah! Very interesting! The neck of the arrow is broken down,—I doubt if it would even hold a taut string." He turned to Heath. "Tell me, Sergeant, where did Professor Dillard find the bow?—not far from that club-room window, what?"

Motorists, Attention!

Pointing out that indifference on the part of motorists indicated an eleventh hour rush for 1930 tags, County Auditor Elmer E. Walker, chief deputy registrar of motor vehicles, today warned that arrests will be made in the event that attempts are made to operate automobiles with old license plates on New Year's day.

Notwithstanding repeated appeals on the part of state, county and district registrars, comparatively few Columbiana county autoists have applied for the maroon and white plates. In East Liverpool, less than 1,200 licenses have been issued by Deputy Commissioner J. S. Hilbert, in charge of the general distribution, and the Columbiana County Motor club which handles the plates for its members.

Sheriff William J. Barlow and his deputies, police chiefs and marshals in cities and villages and constables in townships have been instructed by Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown to arrest all violators of the license law. Since no extension of the time limit will be granted, motorists who fail to apply for 1930 tags during the next three days must leave their automobiles in their garages or risk arrest on the first day of the year.

If the man or woman motorist who expects to spend the holiday on an automobile trip waits until the last minute to file the application for the new license, congestion at license bureaus is inevitable. It is not improbable that long lines of applicants will be formed, thus endangering the late comers to colds and possibly pneumonia from exposure. And this is the open season for pneumonia, the quickest and deadliest disease known to man.

The wise autoist will not defer the formality of applying for license plates.

"We lead the world in two things," says Senator Borah; "in talking about peace and in expending money on armament." Well, anyway, the senator can not be held responsible for the armament expenditure.

Government agents destroying confiscated liquor have been ordered to wear chestplates and masks to protect themselves, after one deputy lost the tip of his nose and another was wounded in the leg. It begins to look more and more like a merry Christmas.

The French Are Amused

It is a cruel blow to American men to discover that excitement over the long skirts is purely the result of American interpretation. Jacques Worth, French couturier in this country directly from Paris, is amazed at the way American women have interpreted the new styles and says the result is all wrong.

M. Worth says that Parisian women would not think of exaggerating the style as American women have and that perfect length of the dress for business, sports or street wear is two Scotch fingers below the knee. A Scotch finger, for the benefit of those who have never had occasion to use it, is the span of the first and fourth fingers. It is the Scotchman's canny way of getting his money's worth out of two fingers of whisky.

The whole thing confirms a suspicion that we have had for a long time; namely that American women use Paris as an excuse for changing their styles. The gay capital does not tyrannize in the dictation of styles; it merely indicates the logical time for changing them and perhaps gives a broad hint as to what it would like to see them become. In the case of long skirts, Paris is disappointed, because the American woman has gone astray and draped herself in a way French fashion experts never dreamed of.

There has yet to appear the slightest indication that women, as a sex, detest the sudden shifts of fashion—provided they are becoming to the individual who is shifted. Watch the modern woman's preparations for a new dress. She window-shops; she rubbernecks; she visits a dozen shops and wears out the patience of twenty-four salesgirls; she tries on a score of dresses and finally nee pounces. She actually welcomes the opportunity to be able to look around, to get the latest thing. Standardization would be contrary to her nature.

Woman shudders at the thought of appearing next year in this year's dress. She wants change; perhaps the next style will be more becoming and she will have a few months of graceful triumph. It is rumored in the papers. Long dresses are coming. Glory be! She buys the fashion magazines. A drape here, a droopy hem there. Soon she appears in "one of the new long dresses." Meanwhile, she blames it all on Paris, the tyrannical monster which has caused it all. Paris comes over to see what is happening, raises its hands in horror and flees back to the comfort of its own conservatism. Ah, woman!

If Calvin Coolidge goes to the senate and refuses to talk until he has something to say what an outlandish senator he will be!

Young people are going to the devil, perhaps, but they are traveling on an improved road.

Mighty Increases in Incomes

That the aggregate income of the people of the United States had appreciated wonderfully during the last two decades has been very generally realized, but, even so, it is hardly probable that the public was prepared for figures showing that the increase in the national income was $23,470,000,000 in the last ten years and almost $60,000,000,000 during the last twenty.

These figures were given out this week by the National Bureau of Economic Research in advance of its complete report in the preparation of which the bureau has been engaged for the last four years.

The full report, the bureau announces, will detail the annual changes in income and its purchasing power from 1909 to 1928 inclusive.

Unfortunately for the sake of comparison, the preliminary report, while giving $976 as the income of the average wage-earner in 1909 and $1,025 in 1928 and an increase in the pay of the salaried employee from $976 in 1909 to $2,934 in 1928, does not set out the purchasing power of the dollar of income in either of these two years. The per capita income realized, the board as good as states in its report, was $749, which will appear to the average reader as rather high, for that would make the average income of a family of four $2,996. The report, however, does bring out that the wage-earners income which in twenty years advanced from $976 to $1,025 has not kept with that of the salaried employee from $976 to $2,984, despite the fact that the increase in the pay of the wage-earner during our participation in the war and immediately thereafter was out of all proportion with the increase in the pay of salaried employees.

Men of Million Years Ago

Advices from Peking are to the effect that scientists have discovered in the quarries at Chow Outien, thirty miles from that Chinese city, ten skeletons in a splendid state of preservation and an unbroken skull which will probably prove the nearest approach yet made to the finding of the ancestors of the human race.

The skull is said to belong to the species of the "Jeking" man which in turn, is associated with the period of the "Pittdown" skull and the Java "ape" man and the scientists making the discovery believe that it is the greatest human find ever made.

The find was made in the same limestone quarries in which the "monkey man" teeth were found in 1928, and it is said to have convinced its discoverers that they have located the home of a distinct type of primitive man as he existed in the Peking region over a million years ago.

A press report says that, in addition to the ten skeletons and the complete skull, the fossil skull of a rhinoceros has been found in the quarry. Also, there were uncovered heaps of bones believed to be those of other animals. Many of the bones were clearly broken as if by human hands, possibly, the scientists believe, by hungry men seeking marrow as food.

The scientists, the press report goes on to say, were unable to account for the fact that ten scattered skeletons were found, while only one skull was located. One theory advanced was that the limestone bed might have been a burial ground for persons who had been beheaded, and that the heads had been deposited somewhere else.

In recent years, scientists have made great progress along the trail back to man in his original form, and the present discovery may prove to be the nearest approach yet made, but despite all the finds thus far made there is yet a decided gap between man and the monkey family. The scientists have done much to bring to light various types of primitive man. In that line their accomplishments have been great. But thus far the so-called "missing link" remains undiscovered. Thus far, fact has not been made to conform to theory.

How To Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

YOU must not forget that the nutrition of a child does not begin at birth. It starts long before birth. What the constitution of the child is to be depends largely on what the mother eats before the child is born, as well as on the nourishment given after it comes into the world.

The effect of the mother's diet is clearly seen in the child's teeth. If her diet before the child's birth, has consisted of fresh, natural foods, then the child will probably be normal and healthy. But if her diet has not contained enough of the valuable mineral salts, the needs of her body, as well as that of her baby, will not be supplied with sufficient lime to make strong bones and teeth.

She should eat plenty of raw and cooked green vegetables. Whole wheat bread should be substituted for white breads, and milk products for much meat. Such a diet is essential for the welfare of the expected child.

Although the teeth of an infant are not visible at birth, and the first tooth does not develop until the child is six to eight months old, they really begin to form and harden five months before birth. These young teeth at birth are embedded in the jaw.

Even the first permanent back teeth or molars are developing at

He ventures into office buildings and accosts pedestrians along the street to inquire about their spiritual status. He departs with the throaty injunction: "Pray, brother, pray. The millennium is near!"

In a restaurant today I saw a young girl not more than 20, smoke, by actual count 14 cigarettes during the progress of her meal. She would stop after almost every bite to inhale a puff or so. My head spun just looking on.

The head waiter in the same cafe upset a familiar Scotch tradition. He pointed to a Scotchman who is one of the oldest customers of the place: "He is the most liberal spender and the most extravagant tipper who comes here," he said.

What is classed as Scotch misanthropy is often a mere caprice, expressing itself in hoarding strings, rubber bands and letter clips and removing unanceled stamps from letters.

My own streak of Scotch thrift is in seeing how many shaves I can squeeze out of a tube of shaving cream. In actual financial saving that would probably mount up to about ten cents a year. And probably wastes $10 worth of time.

The Reviewing Stand

By TOM T. JONES

POTTERY CITY shoppers drank as they milled about looking for that which they loved as Christmas offerings to loved ones, according to reports that emanated from some of the stores. That is to say they indulged in soft drinks to such an extent that those engaged in places where it was possible to assuage the thirst were much put to it to supply their wants. Constant moving about with the resultant heat engendered by the crowds found everywhere served in this respect at least to give to the annual buying surge one of the reactions of a mid-summer season. To none, therefore, will a cessation of the buying rush for the moment comes as greater relief than to those who presided at root beer and "pop" sections where lively purchasing was done.

PERSONAL cards from Gov. and Mrs. Myers Y. Cooper have been received by several persons who enjoy an intimate acquaintance with the present occupants of Ohio's executive mansion. Their action in premises suggest the vastness of work both have done along this line as a part of their pre-Christmas activities. By now their number friends, and close ones, in all of the 88 counties of the state. The task of thus remembering many of them bulwarks as formidable.

THE night before Christmas means much to bakers and kindred workers of the night for them, as on Saturday nights, they have an interim off. But by Christmas night when the majority of persons are basking under the limbs as it were of Christmas trees in their homes and lolling pleasantly in the atmosphere of prevailing good will they must, forsooth, bare their arms and proceed to arrange for thousands of empty stomachs that will be demanding bread upon the morrow or the day after. Community gastronomic demands present a never-satisfied maw. And the bakers, perhaps more than all others, have come to appreciate pertinently this fact.

GEORGE COSTELLO, Sixth street decorator, doubtless without meaning to do so, almost reached the heights of the Yuletide spirit when upon the eve of the outstanding holiday of the year, he turned to a friend whom he was leaving and said: "I hope you will have a better Christmas than you expected," which observation to say the least carries with it potentialities far in advance of the casual and by now meaningless expression, "I wish you a merry Christmas."

Were people to pause and reflect sufficiently they could perhaps go much farther in contributing the needful Christmas cheer by expressions fitting to the individual rather than applying to all and sundry the hackneyed assertions that have become household terms which children use thoughtlessly. Perhaps the constant repetition of "Merry Christmas" to all alike affects the recipient of such salutations much as does "canned music" to the genuine and thorough musician and as does a trivial book to the classic reader.

And yet there is much to say in the way of benefits individually obtained by those who wrote for post cards the seeming selfsame observations that appear upon them. Doubtless they have descended into the depths of their souls by bringing to the surface what to them were the genuine affirmations that were theirs on occasions when they really wished the best for those whom they addressed upon certain Yuletide occasions. But to suggest a better day than one's mind had anticipated is to release a viewpoint that comes while one is sojourning under mental and spiritual "higher ground."

D. R. SAMUEL RICH, just returned from a trip to the West Indies, presents a mid-summer tanned appearance or one suggestive of a long stay near the Floridan Everglades. Some years ago he spent an interim in Europe which perhaps whetted his desires towards globe-trotting. His just-completed trip is doubtless but a preliminary for many others to various sections of the globe.

MISS EDNA SIMMS, of Second street, who has spent several past winters upon trips to various sections of the east, is rapidly qualifying as an authority hereabouts upon the Mediterranean sea. Her itinerary has taken her frequently over its waves. Just now she is contemplating another descent upon it early next year. She is now engaged in completing arrangements for it and upon which she will be accompanied by a party that will see the sea for the first time.

COUNTY Commissioner Charles Kelly of East Liverpool avers that in all travels the greatest view that was presented him was that by which from a point without it he was enabled in one occasion to behold the city of Havana by moonlight. Though he has been in the quaint sections of Quebec and other intriguing spots in Canada as well as having traveled in Europe, he declares Havana by moonlight as he witnessed it is the most arresting spectacle that he can recall. The gorgeousness of the Cuban capital, he contends, at such a moment is all but indescribable.

EAST LIVERPOOL citizens who in recent months have traversed certain sections of Ashtabula county in the interest of the Road of Remembrance have been struck by the spectacle of numerous deserted farm houses enroute. The same condition obtains in many instances in Trumbull county as well. The tendency to live in larger towns with the prevalence of added farming machinery which has greatly expedited production are said to be the reasons for the prevailing exodus from them.

At any rate the presence of large fine homes minus occupants with banner burns and other place equipment about them which at one time indicated that persons with ambition and a long future look inhabited them rather tends to a depressing appearance. However, residents there aver that the lowest ebb has been reached in the desertion of farms and that many of them will in time be reoccupied again. While it is possible to move them while intact some of these homes would make fine additions to many cities.

ALBERT COOPER, president of the Mahoning board of county commissioners, who recently visited East Liverpool during a Road of Remembrance meeting and who is president of the organization in four counties pushing that project, is well known to Columbiana county officials. He has the capability of presenting two appearances to the casual stranger. During a street encounter he looms with his pink countenance as one of extremely youthful mien. Transformed into the presiding officer of an assemblage his bare head reveals a wealth of heavy snow-white hair. As such he looms the staid, impressive man of affairs that he is.

He is a brother of John G. Cooper, who represents his district in congress. The latter's residence in Youngstown made it possible for him to be a member of the church over which the Rev. Dr. Warren O. Hawkins, of this city, was the pastor before coming to East Liverpool.

EDDIE BUZZELL
ON STATE BILL

"Little Johnny Jones," the new first National picture at the State theater, features Eddie Buzzell, popular Broadway comedian, in the title role. Being very small, he was an ideal choice for the part of the American jockey who wins the English Derby.

But Yankee, the horse that plays the equine made famous by the great George M. Cohan stage hit, was harder for Director Mervyn LeRoy to "cast."

About 40 race horses, some of them famous, are seen in the three straining races of the picture. Yankee, however, had to be not only a race horse but a good actor. He was finally discovered through the office of Curly Eagles, an ex-cowboy who is known in Hollywood as the "Casting Director of Horses." And he plays his part to the life.

Alice Day plays opposite Buzzell. Edna Murphy, Donald Reed, Robert Edeson, Wheeler Oakman and several other equally noted film favorites head the large supporting cast. Raymond Turner, the "pop-eyed comedian," a noted negro film actor, has a prominent comedy role.

"Little Johnny Jones" features a novel and appealing love story, and it brims over with comedy.

DUNCAN GIRLS
WIN TRIUMPH

The Duncan Sisters have broken records in vaudeville and musical comedy all over the country, and they are on their way to repeat this pleasant experience in their first talking picture, "It's a Great Life," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production now at the Ceramic theater.

"It's a Great Life" not only gives the big public of the Duncans a new assembly of gags and songs, but it presents the girls in a strong, well-sustained story, in which they demonstrate that they can not only sing, but act mightily well whenever required.

The story is a good one. It more or less dramatizes what would happen if a great "sister act" were ever to have a disagreement. Casey and Babe Duncan were inseparable until Jimmy Dean, a piano player in a department store, began to pay court to Babe. When the girls and Dean are fired from the store because of wisecracks pulled by Rosetta at a very funny amateur show staged by the employees, the act goes great in vaudeville, until it is split by the marriage of Babe and Jimmy, and a resultant flare-up from "Casey."

Rosetta Duncan, famous for clowning, does several bits of pathos in the picture, particularly her parting from Jed Proaty to go to her sister, which are definite gems of the acting art. Vivian, also, has splendid acting opportunities which she handles splendidly. Lawrence Gray scores as Jimmy and other players include George Per-George Davis, Dudley Cham- and Wiley Watson.

Athens (Ga.) Council Decries Fines For Collegians Who Beg Rides In Future.

By International News Service. ATHENS, Ga. — University of Georgia students and co-eds can no more hitch hike from and to classes. If they do they will be liable to a fine of $25.

The city council, spurred on by numerous complaints from residents of the city that the students were becoming a nuisance by flagging motorists from every corner, has passed an ordinance prohibiting any one from soliciting an automobile ride within the city limits.

Any person who halls, or even gestures to a passing motorist will be liable to prosecution under the new law.

Among the complaints by local residents was that children of elementary and high schools were taking up the hitch hiking practice, patterning after the college students.

WELLSVILLE COUNCIL TO REORGANIZE AT MEETING JAN. 2

COUNTY CALLS FOR SPEED ON GRADING JOBS

North Georgetown And Valley Road Work Is Slow.

WARNING GIVEN

"Get Busy" Within 10 Days, Contractors Are Told.

LISBON—Contractors who were awarded grading jobs on the North Georgetown-Westville and the Valley-Salem roads must "get busy" within 10 days or the projects will be declared in default, the county commissioners said today.

"We have given our word that these two roads will be surfaced in 1930, and we're going to make good that promise," the commissioners have informed the contractors.

In four months' time only a few thousand yards of grading has been done on the Valley-Salem road, and only a part of the rough grading on the Westville-North Georgetown job has been completed.

The commissioners have been informed that an additional shovel will be placed on the Valley-Salem road and that more work will be done on the new Westville township project, which is a sub-contract. The Valley-Salem road was awarded last September, and at that time the bidder promised that the road would be graded before the end of the year.

Many complaints have been made to the commissioners by property owners on both roads that the slow progress on these grading projects. County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has insisted that more activity be shown, and he is backed by the commissioners.

County commissioners recently extended the tax-paying limit, the object being to give many funds for holiday trading.

Suits to enforce the collection of overdue delinquent personal tax will be filed in every township in the county early in January, as it is claimed many have ignored official notices. The largest number of these suits will be filed in East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salem.

STEEL CITY'S COUNCIL WILL QUALIFY JAN. 8

Business For 1929 Will Be Concluded Jan. 6.

SEVEN IN BODY

President Robert Lloyd Cites Important Legislation.

MIDLAND—The seven members of the borough council will qualify for their second four-year term on Wednesday night January 8. They will close the business for 1929 at a special session Monday night, January 6.

The council includes: President, Robert Lloyd; vice-president, P. A. Fensler; and O. L. Pringle, W. I. McInerney, Daniel Daugherty, Louis Medgal and P. P. Rodgers. Lloyd, Pringle, Fensler and Rodgers were re-elected in November.

Rodgers, head of the brick department of the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company plant here, was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. E. Burlingame, superintendent of the chipping department of the mill, who was transferred last year to the same force at the New York office.

SEWAGE SYSTEM IN USE

Among the achievements of the law making body are the construction of storm and sanitary sewage systems which Lloyd said today were "the most complete and up-to-date of any in western Pennsylvania."

Two separate units are in use, each having an outlet to the Ohio river. This improvement was completed by the present council at a saving of $35,000 of the allotment made by the former councilmen. Bond issues for $204,000 were approved, but the actual cost was $170,000.

"In addition to the sewers, the establishment of weekly garbage collection from every home in the community was the most important accomplishment," Lloyd said.

Each household now pays a yearly fee for the removal of garbage and rubbish by the borough trucks. An incinerator, completed and put into operation last year, cost $28,000.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS

The street improvements cost nearly $70,000. Beaver avenue was surfaced between Third and Fourth streets at an expenditure of $35,000. The Fairview highway was graded and filled and cindered for $15,000, while Third street was paved with brick between Midland and Beaver avenues. Beaver avenue extension and Virginia avenue, between Fourth and Sixth streets, were opened and the necessary sewers laid.

Legislation for the reconditioning of the Lincoln parks was passed and funds for benches provided. The recreation center is maintained by the borough.

Only $300,000 is needed each year to operate the borough, Lloyd said. Of this amount $120,000 is spent by council, while the school board uses $180,000 in maintaining the four public schools. The tax levy for the borough will be about 15 mills, while the school tax will amount to nearly 25 mills.

SCHOOLS SAVE $65 IN MONTH

Students Of Fourth Street, Newell, Building, Put $36.06 In Bank During December.

NEWELL—School savings for the month of December in the Newell public schools totaled $65.77. Fourth street pupils accumulated $36.06 and W. E. Wells high school and junior high, $29.71.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CAGERS OPEN SEASON JAN. 6

7 Quints Lining Up For Play

F. K. Robinson Prexy Of Local Court Circuit.

THE Y. M. C. A. Sunday school basketball league, re-organized at a recent meeting of managers and officials, will swing into action on Monday night, Jan. 6.

Seven clubs have entered the circuit to date. Officials of the circuit would like to have at least one more although the absence of additional entries will not in any way interfere with operations of the league.

The contenders already include the Orchard Grove Avenue Methodist Episcopal, the First Baptists, the Chester Presbyterians, the Newell Methodist Episcopal, the Second United Presbyterians and two teams from the Fifth street Methodist Episcopal church, to be designated as "A" and "B."

F. K. Robinson has been chosen as president of the circuit. Vice President Lutton, Secretary E. M. Carlton and Treasurer A. S. Pit-tulger are the other officials.

Committees have also been chosen to handle other details preliminary to the beginning of the season.

Yankees Face Pay Question

Ruth's Figure Said to Be $85,000 for Three Years.

By DAVIS J. WALSH, International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The silence in the case of Ruth versus the New York Yankees is all but deafening but nobody is being kidded by the quasi-innocence of the situation, the New York Yankees least of all. There is, in fact, the makings of a fine, old bargain to be found in the question of this young man's salary for 1930 and ensuing years, particularly if the New York ball club attempts to be austere about it. This would be a downright comical way to treat a man who is indispensable to one's success but, then, baseball clubs never were distinguished in an intellectual sense and the Yankees may be no smarter than the next, which means not at all.

I am not in a position to speak for Mr. Ruth but I venture to say that his demand will be reasonable enough.

"You play ball with me and I'll play ball for you," probably would express it.

Wants Three-Year Contract.

Although nobody concerned has committed himself on the subject, it generally is understood that Ruth wants $85,000 a season on a three-year basis. This is a whole lot more money than ordinary men get for playing ordinary baseball. But what would you? I won't flout your intelligence by pointing out that Ruth is no ordinary man.

He is the man who made possible the winning of six pennants and three world series in the last nine years. He is the man who made the franchise so fabulously rich that few can compete with it in the open market. He is the man whose very personality made the Yankee stadium, the finest baseball field ever conceived, pay for itself. He is the man to whom baseball itself owes much of its success through the last golden decade. With him, it went to financial greatness undreamed of in the none too distant past. Without him, it might still be floundering.

A matter of $85,000 doubtless is a lot of money in anybody's racket, but not if you retain your sense of comparative values. The $25,000 man is not unknown to baseball. Does any of them equal even one-quarter of Ruth's value to baseball? I think not. How about the fighter who gets a guarantee of $100,000 for non-championship matches? He gets it because he figures to bring it back at the gate. I suppose he either is to assume then that Ruth won't bring it back at the gate or that he doesn't deserve to be as well treated as a prize fighter.

Needed on Training Trips.

It has been darkly hinted that, if an alternative is necessary, Ruth will become a holdout. If he does that, he will have them licked. They can't afford to start south without him because the exhibition games there not only pay the run for the training trip but also the first mortgage. I suspect, on Mr. Ruth's salary itself.

This was believed to be so when Mr. Ruth was drawing $70,000 a year during the last three seasons and there is no great reason for a change now. Mr. Ruth no longer is as the antelope for agility out there but he will furnish plenty of baseball every day until further notice, and good or bad, he'll always draw them in and keep them coming.

RISKO "TUFFY" SCRAP TONIGHT

Shot at Jack Sharkey in Miami Feb. 27 Is Plum Each Pug Hopes to Pick.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—With visions of Biscayne bay's palm-fringed shore dancing before their eyes, Gerald Ambrose "Tuffy" Griffiths of Sioux City, Iowa, and plain Johnny Risko of Cleveland, come together in a scheduled ten round bout tonight at Madison Square Garden.

The winner, so the rival managers claim, has been promised a shot at Jack Sharkey at Miami on February 27. Whether this is true or not it is a certainty that tonight's winner will raise tremendous squawk if not chosen to meet the American heavyweight champion in the big winter fight.

The chances of Risko or Griffiths to get the Miami date seem slim at this time, due to the high esteem in which Garden officials hold Victorio Campolo, man mountain of the Argentine. To gain serious attention the boys must win in impressive fashion, preferably by a quick and decisive knockout.

Griffiths is quoted as 8 to 5 favorite in wagering circles to trim the rubbery baker boy. "Tuffy" has been winning steadily as a heavyweight since his disastrous debut here as a light heavyweight some time ago when he was knocked silly in the second round by James J. Braddock. Since that catastrophe he has won 13 fights, 10 via knockouts.

Open Hearth, Finishers Win League Games

Glumac Sets Loop Scoring Mark With 21 Points.

Glumac, last year's high school star, set a new league scoring record of 21 points last night as the Open Hearths took over the Coke Bloomers, last year's champs, 29 to 26, in the Crucible Steel loop at Midland. Slater and Sufalietta also starred for the winners. Staley and Britt for the losers. Staley led the Coke marksmen with 10 points. Service quint led the Finishers, 18-17, at the half, but couldn't hold their advantage in the final periods and the six-foot aggregation of Finishers came through with a 30-24 victory. Zook and Lewellyn starred for the winners. Betteridge amassed 13 points for the Servers.

An All-Star team from the league will play the Pittsburgh All-Stars tomorrow night at 8 o'clock on Midland high gym floor. The Pittsburgh five will have Bill Robusch, "Red" McMahon, Leo Rohrer, Fritter and other college stars in the lineup. The Midlanders will use Zook, Wyant, Slater, Black, Glumac and other stars to be picked before tomorrow night.

Open Hearth, 39. G. F. T. McKeeveh, f. 0 0 0 Slater, f. g. 3 2 8 Glumac, f. 19 1 21 Maza, c. 1 0 2 Sufalietta, g. 4 0 8 Black, g. 0 0 0 Totals 18 3 39

Coke Bloomer, 26. G. F. T. Ankrim, f. 1 1 3

All in all, I should say that the Yankees might do worse than meet him half way. If I were in their place, as a matter of fact, I'd stand on the door step in order to make sure that he didn't go around trying strange doors and so fall down an elevator shaft or something.

National Hangs Up 3 Records

Hughie Critz of Reds Has Fielding Mark Of .984.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Three National league individual fielding records were broken and one was tied during the 1929 season, it was revealed by official averages released today.

One new mark was set by Hughie Critz of the Reds who leads the second basemen with an average of .984. The former highest mark was .983, made by Earl Adams of the Cubs in 1925.

Earl Clark of the Braves, although not leading the outfielders, set records for putouts and chances accepted in a single game when on May 10 he had 12 putouts and one assist in center field. The former mark for putouts was 11 and belonged to Max Carey while the previous high water point for chances accepted was 11, held by seven National league outfielders.

Earl Sheely, Pittsburgh, led the first basemen with an average of .996.

Andy High, Cardinals, was kingpin of the third sackers with .9672.

Speedy Ethan Allen of the Reds headed the outfield parade with a percentage of .985.

While Mike Gonzales of the Cubs was the nominal leader among the catchers with an average of .992 for 60 games, the actual leader was Walter Lerman of the Phillies, with a .986 average for 103 contests.

Travis Jackson, Giant's captain, led the shortstops with .969. Horace Ford, Redleg shortfielder, had 11 putouts on September 18, thereby tying the record set by William Fuller of the Giants in 1895.

Twenty-one pitchers fielded for 1,000 the past season. Dazzy Vance led with 62 chances so is named as the leader.

Club fielding honors went to the Champion Cubs who finished with .954, six points better than the Giants. This set a new record. The league fielded for a grand average of .912 to wipe out another mark. Another league record was set when the Cubs and Reds executed nine double plays in a single game.

Sewickley's Soccer Squad In Steel City

Will Clash With Barratt's Crucibles Tomorrow.

The Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company plant soccer team, Midland, which will be led by Jack Barrett, manager and goal tender, will clash with the Sewickley team at the Twelfth street park at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The game will be played between the best and worst teams in the Beaver Valley Press Soccer league, according to the standing of the eleven. The local men top the valley league by four points and although the Sewickley team will not have a chance at league honors, the game, Barrett warrants, is going to be a fast and hard fought battle.

At a recent meeting of the officials of the Valley league it was decided to prolong the soccer season for eight games. This additional schedule will call Midland away for three battles, while five will be played on local ground. The affair with Sewickley will be the first under the new addition.

Bisons Face Juniata and Penn State

BETHANY, W. Va., Dec. 27.—Coach Nuss is busily putting the finishing touches to his basketball team in hope of having them in good shape before starting on an eastern jaunt into Pennsylvania and meeting two outstanding fives. The first foe will be Juniata College who will be met on January 4 and the following night the Bisons five will tangle with Penn State's Nittany Lion cagers. With such stiff opposition to start off with Coach Nuss has been putting forth a great deal of effort so that

Zookmen Get Back To Work

Will Resume Drills Monday After Yule Loaf.

AFTER a week's loaf during which high school basketballs were given ample opportunity to forget pivots and passes temporarily, Coach Earl Zook today announced plans for a solid week of drills beginning Monday and winding up with weekend games on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 3 and 4, with Warren and Coshocton high schools.

Both events are scheduled as home attractions.

The Potters looked the part of a classy cage squad as they plastered the Alumni passers last Saturday night. They had virtually everything they needed that night, which had to be plenty in view of the type of opposition they faced.

Now Zook tackles the job of regaining that intangible "edge" again for the two coming encounters which will probably be as tough as any on the schedule. There's no question about the ability of the Coshocton outfit. The Potters investigated the matter thoroughly at Coshocton. Frickzy and obtained first hand information to this effect.

A preliminary workout was held by the local passers yesterday at the high school, sufficient to overcome, partially, at least, the effects of Christmas feasts. Another short drill was scheduled for either today or tomorrow.

he men on the bench who will be able to go at top speed from the start to the finish. Nuss is well fortified with reserve material this season and should be able to carry through and finish with a great record. But of course in basketball like any other sport there are always upsets but followers of the Bison five are confident that Bethany will even surpass the great record of last year.
